Writing

Each week we have been writing stories in class. I have been keeping all their stories as I will be sending home a "First Grade Writing Booklet" for each child at the end of the year. Students have been given "sentence frames" to help with sentence structure when they write.

Beginning this week, I will begin transitioning from providing sentence frames, to have students create their own sentences within their stories.

I have noticed that most students have wonderful ideas yet when they write they tend to forget sentence structure, spacing, punctuation and remaining on the same idea throughout the story. When your student writes sentences at home please have them re-read the sentence to you for content and to make sure it is making sense.
